A little about me...

I am a wife, mum and nanny. I love to spend time with my family going camping and enjoying the beach. When I have time I enjoy reading and doing puzzles.

What do you believe about how young children learn?

If the children are supported, respected and cared for they will then be able to learn in a relaxed way.

What kind of environment do you hope to create? How does this relate to your basic belief about young children and learning?

I hope the children feel comfortable and supported in their first years of education, which would then lead to confident children that are not afraid to ask questions and explore all the learning environments.

What do you want them to achieve, accomplish, learn and feel?

Each child should feel supported to be able to deal with whatever life throws their way.

Why I think early years education is important?

It is the first step to a child's independence which can be scary for some. The Early years should be a place for each child to take these first steps in a safe nurturing setting.
